

Graduate Program – Guided Modes (tram, metro, railway)

Keolis

You will be recruited on a long term contract, from February 2019, to join the Guided Modes Graduate Program set up by Keolis.

More than just an everyday transport operator, Keolis is one of the world's leader in shared mobility. As an expert in multimodality, the Group is a partner of public policymakers who want to make mobility an asset for the attractiveness and livability of their community. Dedicated to passengers and attentive to their individual needs, Keolis works every day to provide more enjoyable, more human ways of getting around.

Keolis operates public transport networks on behalf of 300 transport authorities around the world. It is now present in 16 countries across four continents. As well as being the world leader in trams and automated metros, the Group is providing shared mobility services to three billion passengers each year.

The Graduate Program was created by the Group in order to recruit and train Keolis future managers.

24 months in a Graduate Program dedicated to training

For 24 months, you will be welcomed within our guided modes networks: 6 months in France and 6 up to 24 months abroad internationally (Germany, UK, USA...).

Accompanied by an experienced mentor, you will learn various operational skills (driving, resource management ...) in passenger transport.

This period will be punctuated by trainings tailored to our business (transport systems, production engineering, management, law and social relationships, finance...) which are provided by the Keolis University in partnership with SNCF (French National Railway Company).

After this training period, you will have been exposed to all of the components of Guided Modes Operations: Production, Methods, Planning, Management etc., and you will then be appointed to an operational position in one of our guided modes (tram – metro – railway) subsidiaries abroad.

Manager Profile

A graduate with a Master's degree in transportation, engineering or business, you are able to lead, make decisions, listen, and excel in a technical environment.

You have excellent interpersonal skills, creativity, computer skills and are comfortable with figures and management. You speak French and English fluently.

Finally, this position requires full mobility in France and abroad, both during the training period and at its end.

Real career opportunities

By joining Keolis, you will become part of a booming industry in a dynamic group that will support your professional growth and will offer you real career opportunities.
